

Starting today and every Sunday thereafter, Page 1 will focus on what the PDI chair calls "medical updates," a term she picked up from a book that attempts to explain why people aren't reading newspapers as much as they used to. It is no coincidence that we start serving updates on the 31st anniversary of the EDSA People Power revolt, which really started out as a news beat, thanks to the press. It turned into a full-blown uprising that moved the Marcos dictatorship. We want a people's press to be free and doing something about it. Without being a single shot. Without blood running in the streets. EDSA truly celebrates the fact that the Filipino can be. And that's the good news any day of the week.

Gawad Kalinga goes worldwide

Bishop says GK new kind of People Power

By Ma. Cora P. Dizon, in Manila and Mayor R. Borge Jr., Inquirer Bayan

HOPE AND A BETTER life are the latest Filipino exports. Poor as it is, the Philippines would not be left behind in the sharing department.

Gawad Kalinga (GK), the highly successful training and development program for the poor, is going global to improve the lives of the underprivileged in other countries. This major step means Gawad Kalinga Inc. (GKI) will have to be moved and new faces will emerge. That is all there is to it.

"Gawad Kalinga" (Nobody knows, nobody gets left behind). This was what Gawad Kalinga's chairman, outgoing executive director Antonio Mito said to create a daily newspaper in 1998 that he was leaving GK, the flagship training and development program of Gawad Kalinga Inc. (GKI), along with GK leaders and GK staff.

GO gets going as fighters at Plaza Miranda

By Yot Contreras and Dore Pablacion

AFTER A CONVOLUTED PROCESS OF putting together former political leaders under one banner, the Genuine Opposition (GO) presented its inaugural show last night in an inaugural show of force that had the candidates calling themselves a pack of "watchdogs" and "fighters."

GO held its pre-nomination rally at Plaza Miranda, the historic square in the heart of Old Manila, to try to project a complete, unified front, putting up posters for 12 candidates despite the absence on stage of two and the late arrival of another.

It was reported early on that director Noyoy L. Aquino III and his "gawad kalinga" Sen. Francisco "Kika" Pimentel would not be coming.

Senate President Manuel Villar—another "gawad kalinga"—did not arrive until around 7:45 p.m., nearly three

According to TV host Lito Lito, Hope also claims that Tap courted another girl named Anna in the same beauty clinic. "Anna was the case of James and Hope's first big fight."

This new variable in Kika's long running rivalry TV show can be seen in the larger picture involved and, let's face it, the fact that many candidates used to be old-style or just plain old politicians, whose retained houses and old-fashioned speech and campaign styles seemed effective when shown on television.

One thing about Plaza Miranda: It attracts a massive of anti-political protesters who are impatient, disrespectful.

However, now that some younger and more personable candidates are breaking into the ranks of "newcomers," TV has finally become the medium.

Electoral battleground shifts from Plaza Miranda to TV screen

REVIEW By Hector U. Tene, Editor, Sunday Special

IN THE UNITED STATES, ELECTIONS HAVE BEEN WON AND lost on the TV screen for decades now. This helps explain the rise, from John F. Kennedy onward, of very personable presidential, senatorial or gubernatorial candidates, some evading the charms of movie stars—and some being movie stars themselves (Ronald Reagan, Arnold Schwarzenegger).

American candidates still go to the battlements and hold town hall meetings with voters, particularly during primaries. But much of their efforts to win since the public is now for them are done by way of TV spots snatching their votes and retaining associations of voters.

Exposed, the practice is now being inspired or emulated on Philippine TV screens. There's been some delay due to the huge expense involved and, let's face it, the fact that many candidates used to be old-style or just plain old politicians, whose retained houses and old-fashioned speech and campaign styles seemed effective when shown on television.

The Preschool Promise

Raising children who love reading and learning.

Our Dream

Scholastic's dream is to make children happy in school so they may continue learning to the rest of their lives. Starting them young when they are most impressionable instills the love and habit of learning. The best way to achieve this is by teaching them how to read.

Children who learn how to read early on in their lives grow to love books. It becomes a part of who they are, enriching their lives in immeasurable ways.

Scholastic has made it an enduring commitment to educate children by expanding their horizons through reading. We nourish their young minds and, in turn, nourish all the dreams that they discover for themselves.

Our Program

The Scholastic Preschool Literacy Program (P/LP) lives the company's vision to reach and inspire every child to read more, learn more, understand themselves better and, ultimately, to lead better lives. It is designed to introduce children to the joys of reading and learning during the crucial stage when learning makes all the difference.

The Preschool Literacy Program makes teachers and parents easily achieve their goals for each child's academic success through a comprehensive approach to early childhood education. It uses (1) well-researched and validated materials developed by world-renowned literacy specialists; (2) integrated curriculum covering different subject areas; (3) proven strategies to teach reading, writing, speaking and listening; (4) teacher training by national and international literacy specialists; and (5) a parent involvement program that engages parents to be actively involved in their children's education.

Three preschools sharing Scholastic's ideals recently signed up to the Preschool Literacy Program — Kiddos Beginnings, located at Don Antonio Heights in Carmichael, Quezon City; Willow Tree Learning Center located at Sta. Catalina St., Bantay, Quezon City and the Chinese International School Manila, the first Chinese international school in the country located at Upper McKinley Road, McKinley Hill at Fort Bonifacio in Tagaytay. Kiddos and Willow Tree started using the Preschool Literacy Program early this year. QISM shall start using the program when it officially opens in August.

Our Promise

We raise children who have genuine love for reading. They are excited to go to school because they always look forward to new, exciting discoveries in the classroom. They have an understanding of themselves and the world. They can apply what they learn in school to every day experiences. They are confident in themselves and have an awareness of their roles at home and in the community.

Our Invitation

Learning to read is an enjoyable, meaningful experience and Scholastic wishes to share the magic this experience creates with teachers, parents and especially children. We invite schools to start the journey with us by contacting us at 755-6734 or 817-8171. You may also send an email to Scholastic, Inc. at ask@scholastic.com.ph.

Balibkayan box symbol of plight of OFWs - CBCP

By Jerome Abo

A "BALIBKAYAN" BOX IS NOT JUST A CONTAINER of goods from abroad but a poignant reminder that Filipinos have to work abroad to survive and that their families can survive.

The Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines' Episcopal Conference on the Philippine Overseas Workers' Welfare Fund (POWWF) has in mind as the country marks the second anniversary of the fund.

"The Balibkayan" box is not only a symbol of the Filipino migrant worker, it is also a symbol of the Filipino migrant worker's family.

Some eight million Filipinos work and send home more than 2,000 and 3,000 pesos home the country daily for employment.

The CBCP said the Bureau of Philippine Overseas Workers' Welfare Fund (POWWF) has in mind as the country marks the second anniversary of the fund.

Despite US stand, PRC insists on pleading nurses' case

By Jerome Ang

THE PROFESSIONAL REGULATION COMMISSION will still push for a reconsideration of the decision of the United States Commission on Trade and Foreign Investing Schools that all Filipino nurses who took the long-impounded June 2006 licensure exam under protest of the test, to begin applying for a nursing job in America.

PRC Chair Lenore Tiplan-Ramos will head a team of government officials and private-sector representatives that will brief for the US consulate in "explore" the decision to the CPTF, even though the commission had stated that it decided not to file.

Later Secretary Armin Alonzo declared that CPTF head Barbara Nichols spoke to Ramos by telephone yesterday and confirmed that the country's decision over the matter was final.

"We will try to make an appeal, we'll provide additional information in case they reconsider their decision," Ramos said.

CPTF, which is based in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, listed the Vietnamese certification as necessary to work in the US.

Last Feb. 14, it rejected Filipino nurses who took the June 2006 exam to receive Tier 2 and Tier 3, where questions were allegedly leaked to some examinees.

The Department of Labor and Employment, the PRC's mother agency, has taken the initiative to offer the review. It has drafted rules that it hoped would be redrafted in a proposed executive order that the President may sign in the months.

However, the "appeal" delegation" committee and manufacturer, highlighting the two officials' opposing stances on the long-ago controversy.

WILL Ramos said Ramos, based on the appeal "because the obviously only reason to prevent the credibility of the PRC, and to the country's nursing profession."

By Ramos said her mission was prompted by the request of nursing graduates who would be made to enter the exam.

"Of course as much as possible they don't want a review because they have to prepare and re-examine again," she said.

Ramos said the review would be conducted in coordination with the Board of Nursing.

"The review will be held in a manner that would avoid any question about the validity of the former the PRC board presents to the June 2006 nursing exam," he said in a statement issued yesterday. "It will also serve to ensure transparency and trust in the process."

"You don't have to die of cancer"

If you are looking for a very potent, safe and effective cure for cancer, this is the answer:

BOSTON C TRITON HERBS BPOD LTD No. RD28-R3-F-2047 (No approved therapeutic claim)

Although it is still classified by FDA as a Herbal Food Supplement, both biological testing and actual experience show that Boston C Herbal Extracts go very well beyond that.

In 2002 and 2003, the U.P. Institute of Biology conducted laboratory tests using Boston C herbal extracts in different dilutions on lung adenocarcinoma, colon carcinoma, jurkat cell lymphoma, Molt4 carcinoma, while a government Asian Biotechnology Laboratory tested it on lung and cervical cancer cells for presentation to the World Health Organization.

The official results of these scientific laboratory tests clearly revealed and certified that even in its most diluted form, the Boston C herbal extracts were still able to kill off more than half the population of cancer cells within 3-5 days, depending on the type of cancer. This means that when taken in its undiluted form and on a daily basis for a period of time, the herbal concoction will surely free the body of cancer. And since these herbal extracts have an almost zero toxicity level, it can be taken liberally without damaging the rest of the body, thus making it the better and safer alternative to an operation, chemotherapy and radiation.

Through the years, Boston C TRITON HERBS herbal extracts have also been able to treat prostate, bone and brain cancers, bronchial asthma, carcinoma of the liver, diabetes mellitus, edema, cirrhosis, emphysema, hemorrhoid, rheumatoid arthritis, viral and bacterial infections, and psoriasis. It also fosters the recovery of people who have suffered from stroke and rehabilitates the kidneys of those undergoing dialysis.

Respecting democratic institutions

THE REICH TALKS ABOUT THE INCORPORATION of the 1986 Constitution into the 1987 Constitution. It is a good idea, but it is not the solution to the problem of the 1986 Constitution. The 1986 Constitution is a very poor document, and it is not the solution to the problem of the 1986 Constitution.

However, after equally ignoring his own past performance regarding the 1986 Constitution, he is now talking about the 1986 Constitution. He is now talking about the 1986 Constitution.

WITH DUE RESPECT

ARNOLD E. FRIEDMAN

Gore's participation. Despite their widespread knowledge, Gore accepted the verdict of the US high court and accepted victory in Bush, Jr. I asked him, "Why did you not pursue your remedy in the public sphere, to be included in the official record of the people's choice?"

Gore's reply was quick. "There is something greater than me. The triumph of our democratic institutions is more important than the personal victory. The people's choice is what counts. I was diagnosed with leukemia. I had surgery and am now well."

"If I had considered the health of America's democracy, I am wondering what would have been the result. The medical record would have taken many months. Months, so the people would have been in a state of limbo. I am sure that the people would have been in a state of limbo. I am sure that the people would have been in a state of limbo."

Every man and his dog. But in the context, he immediately saw 113 million. I believe America will always cherish his vulnerability and participation. He may have been the weakest, but he will be remembered more than many who had spent their lives in the shadows.

If this modest admission had taken place in the Philippines, I am wondering what would have been the result. The medical record would have taken many months. Months, so the people would have been in a state of limbo. I am sure that the people would have been in a state of limbo."

The only man who respects the dignity of the lowest politicians would be naturally content. Filipino politicians had to defend on their positions, but they had no democratic government institutions, in the name of democracy, American men took the eyes of the people and the people's choice. They just did not have the ability to deliver their people to the people.

He was the only man who respected the dignity of the lowest politicians. He was the only man who respected the dignity of the lowest politicians. He was the only man who respected the dignity of the lowest politicians.

Our government's emergency response, and our government's emergency response, and our government's emergency response, and our government's emergency response, and our government's emergency response.

Facility offers drug users, alcoholics choices

By Of Yo

FROM THE OUTSIDE, ONE WOULD THINK that the Life Management Foundation in Makati City is a treatment center for people with drug and alcohol problems.

Large rectangular glass windows to white and wooden doors in the main building, painted in light blue and white, could be seen.

One resident, whose name was not disclosed, said the patients stayed in their beds, the white doors, the guards in the building to receive.

There are more in this facility as having the Life Management, patients come and go to their plans. They are responsible for their own lives, guided only by counselors who know exactly what they are going through.

"It was by accident for me," said Andrea Abella, a psychologist, one of the founders of Life Management and a recovery addict herself. "Offering a unique perspective on the treatment of substance addiction, the center is a place where patients can be treated and receive a life in the Philippines."

"This unique program, a lot of people wonder how we are able to maintain our reputation for life because the impression is an addict has to be jailed, that he's every day," said Abella.

"I guess the difference is in the way we present ourselves. I'm recovering addict myself. And my experience was a drug addict, not a jailer. I think what really helps is no medication such other," he added.

"So it's not the support and the trust, it's really there. In addition, a psychologist is a psychologist. A professional is a professional. The role will just think. There's another person I can trust," he says.

Addiction a disease

Abella, who has a master's degree in Psychology from the University, says he cannot emphasize enough that drug is a disease and not a choice.

"If you study addiction biology, drug is a disease," he said. "The biology of it just contributes to the brain," he said.

Once a person has drug addiction in a Life Management, he has no choice but to stay in the program, which Life Management does not allow. "Others are eligible for outpatient services, especially with a family," he added.

"There is a lot of medication, but the delivery of the medication will depend on the situation and resources of the client. In our program is to be made for each participant," Abella said.

"We measure, if you're suffering from depression, we also add additional counseling from a psychologist who will help you, apart from the other two or three basic steps," he said.

Free medical services include family therapy, which the parents and their families talk about their feelings, individual counseling, as well as group therapy.

The program, however, does not cover drug testing for their parents, including when they are in the program, said Abella, while a detox program costs P100,000.

But staff members said the facility could still provide, depending on the needs of the patients, individual treatment.

Convincing the panel

Those able to "graduate" patients have to receive a panel of members that they have received.

"We like it, but here, you have three to five members, the panel (evaluating panel). After you pass their test, you're okay, you can graduate," said Abella.

For counseling services and counseling, patients are usually asked to discuss procedures with the "board" of the Makati Medical Center, Dr. Leticia Medical Center and Makati City.

"The 12 steps (to the Life Management program) basically is three choices. The client has to be in a condition, or be conscious to stay in the program," he added.

Abella admits they have experienced cases of patients trying to leave. "There is always the possibility, he prepares the family for that. That's why we present a difficult way to the patient to stay in the program," he said.

"We are not limited to what we are going to provide."

because they are so addicted here and to the life outside. They get all the things necessary to stay and able to work on it," said Abella.

"I find very good about this," said a patient, a middle-aged man, in a room with the facility. "It's my first time in the kind of program. What's great is that the responsible for myself and the life to come and growing. That's important to me," he said, adding that he has been with Life Management for nearly a month.

The fact that all the members also understand some level of addiction has positive results, said Abella. He generally shows a step towards this recovery for 12 years of staying sober.

Abella said in the words, "hardly have we seen a person who has been in the program and not," he said, adding that he has been with Life Management for nearly a month.

"The patients are those who have been in the program, and they are that they will stay in the program, but we have to be sure that they are not only in a past group, but also in the future. But when it happens that they are not only in the future."

Poetry is life for crippled Pinay

By Reynaldo Daga Jr.

SHERIFF GERONIMO'S DAY USUALLY BEGINS AT 5 A.M., when she is given her morning medicine by a nurse at the island nursing home in Hawaii. Like clockwork, a daily ritual begins 45 minutes later: a nurse's assistant removes her dentures for her, gives her a bath and changes her clothes.

Every hour to the hour, nurse's assistant aids Sheriff Geronimo and her dependent.

Between inhibitor treatments and massage and more-or-less constant for her arm and legs, Sheriff spends the day in a hospital bed, watching television and Filipino soap operas on TVC or The Filipino Channel or working on the computer.

Every other day Sheriff, after more 90 on April 24, is followed up in a wheelchair for at least three hours.

This is the life Sheriff has known for the past 10 years.

The third child of Filipino parents had migrated to Hawaii in 1971. Sheriff was a typical Filipino-American teenager, brimming with hope and promise.

Quite unexpectedly, Sheriff was stricken by cerebral and respiratory arrest at the age of 17.

The doctor's diagnosis sounded grim. She was afflicted with a rare form of muscular dystrophy called Rhythmic Body Myopathy.

Not slowly, Sheriff indicated her parents' confusion and uncertainty. In fact, her dad Lario, a retired US Army man, was originally from Cebu, while mom Mary hailed from San Mateo, Rizal.

Iron will

"I survived because of the care and compassion of my doctors, nurses and respiratory therapists at Tripler Medical Center," she said. She learned through a trial, "my mother and my faith in God gave me strength."

Although she was confined to the hospital for six grueling months, she managed to graduate from Mountain High School, "with honors," in 1987.

I had a tutor and took the home study program," she said. Sheriff later enrolled at the Kapolei Community College, majoring in Computer Programming.

I studied for three years, but was forced to quit due to the gradual progression of my ailment," she recalled.

She found medical library of open, but it also allowed her to maintain her faith.

"I was never interested in writing," she said. "I only started composing poetry after I became sick. I took a way for me to make my feelings known. I'm unable to speak."

3 volumes

To record her thoughts, a portable computer table was specially designed for her by Bill Rodriguez Services. The computer screen is connected to an arm which can be moved, so she can use it even when she's in bed.

Like other writers, Sheriff has good bad days. "Sometimes writing poetry wasn't easy. I got inspired right away and a poem came in my head. Other times, it takes longer and my mind goes blank."

A lifetime source of inspiration for her was:

"Most of my poems are dedicated to my husband and children. I want my family to know and struggle."

AFFLICTED with a rare form of muscular disease, Sheriff Geronimo has hope in the company of her bank of poems at a hospital in Hawaii.

could have given up a long time ago. I don't know what I'd do without her."

In the past 18 years, she has written something poetry to fill up three volumes.

One day, she decided to compile her poems in a book, which she titled "Sheriff of My Heart."

"While writing the first, I found the words of Sheriff Geronimo, a Chinese artist which made me realize I was not alone."

Meeting Sharon a dream: Sheriff's poems were disseminated to different publishers, but was rejected every time. But finally, she found her home. She decided to publish the book herself, with the help of her husband and her brother, who is a professional writer.

Here is a story of inspiration, Sheriff asserted. "I wish my book with images which can give up hope, my mother love."

SHIRTS who came to see Sheriff in 2002 for the book "Sheriff of My Heart" and her mother's love.

Heart life was, Sheriff, in power and "I'm glad because I'm not alone."

Speaking of dreams, Sheriff told us with which she met Sharon Geronimo of the Hawaii State of the Music Council Trust.

In 2005, At 30, she was still a student.

"I've been a fan since I saw her debut concert 'Dear Sheriff' in 1981. I wrote to her sometime in 1992. She wrote back and we've been in touch since."

Sharon's friendship means the world to me," she said.

Although the story is somewhat positive, she is lonely most of the time because of her illness.

With it

"Slowly, my health is deteriorating," Sheriff admitted. "I want to be able to walk and breathe on my own without using a ventilator. But now, I'm wheelchair-bound and completely dependent. I use different devices—a medical alert, along with pulmonary and EMT operators—every three months."

Sell, she remained willfully positive in her situation. "In the 20 years I've been sick, I've only been hospitalized a few times."

Sheriff shared a wish for that's unique in her simplicity. "I wish I weren't sick anymore. I wish my family could be happy and live a long time. I wish my book is a success, so that I'll have a second or third book. I wish to travel. I wish to go home."

Chimps, humans split from common ancestor 4M years ago, says study

MONROVIA—A NEW STUDY, which is controversial, estimates that chimpanzees and humans split from a common ancestor just five million years ago, a much shorter time than previous estimates of five million to seven million years ago.

The researchers compared the DNA of chimpanzees, humans and other primates to estimate the split, as well as the time of divergence. They used a new technique of calculation that had not been previously applied to genetic data.

The researchers, G. Ian Thompson, who heads the team, said he advanced the new study for the 500,000th issue of the journal "Science" but the did not focus on the divergence time of the chimpanzees and humans.

The study is controversial because it challenges the long-standing view that humans and chimpanzees split from a common ancestor about five million years ago. # Staying on top with 'best can be better' belief

CEO of one of country's top hospitals shares success secrets

By Margie Quiroga-Espino

AN ENTERPRISE HAS a life cycle. It grows, reaches a plateau, and finally it's downshift from there.

Under the enterprise expands, it matures or becomes continuously and the long-term success depends on leaders who can continuously propel a company to new heights.

St. Luke's Medical Center is one of the most profitable hospitals in the country today. The latest profitable is due, it's problems and CEO duties.

"We are the most financially stable, by a mile," says Jose P. G. Lachman, CEO of the hospital. In 1999, the hospital earned $10 million in profit. The hospital is a non-profit organization, and Lachman is not a shareholder.

But sufficient profit allows the hospital to keep its doors open. The hospital is a 100-bed facility in Fort Lauderdale, with plans to spend an additional $10 million on new equipment.

Last year, it launched a full academic program, providing medical education for up to 60 students. Case for each student amounts to $175,000 to $200,000 a year. The institution was established by the Episcopal Church in the Philippines in 1965.

New beginnings

Lachman says St. Luke's success has been in the back for over two decades.

But it's not all smooth sailing. Back in 1979, St. Luke's was one

THE HOSPITAL is one of the country's top hospitals and only the second in the state to be accredited by JCI, putting it in the elite group of healthcare providers worldwide.

Innovators and risk takers

Looking back at the steady growth of St. Luke's, Lachman says this can be attributed to being "innovative and risk takers."

"The secret is a lot in people and medical staff expertise and technology as well as customer service," says Lachman.

He says the hospital is lucky indeed, for the past two decades, it has a "strong bond" with its employees and is supportive of its mission.

Up to now, doctors are not allowed to become members of the board. It is a matter of time before that changes.

But the hospital provides its doctors with the best equipment and technology. St. Luke's knows that it is better equipped than 95 percent of hospitals in the United States.

Getting the best is Lachman's shortlist in hiring people.

"To ensure it will get the best doctors, it now picks the top students to be educated in its medical school."

Lachman says that can lead to graduation of 100 doctors and St. Luke's can qualify for scholarships in their schools.

"Our belief is, if you get the best students you will produce great graduates."

And the unique thing about the school is that they are not requiring their students to study and work for the hospital after they have completed their studies. But Lachman says that the quality of the hospital's doctors and services.

Lachman was proud when St. Luke's became the first Philippine hospital to be accepted in the Joint Commission International accreditation in the US in 2000.

and received a large number of awards, mostly in recognition of its efforts.

A more noticeable prize came in 1999, when St. Luke's was named the "Best Hospital" by the Philippine Medical Association.

"The prize is a great honor and a great recognition of our efforts and the support of our patients and the community," says Lachman.

St. Luke's was also one of the first hospitals to adopt the practices of the hospital industry.

"We were in the hospital industry for over 30 years, and we have learned the importance of customer service, to be there to ensure service, to get with the times and the world."

"The effort is to ensure all services in the hospital, from $100 to $1,000, to ensure the best service."

Loyalty

A LEADER'S WAY

John C. Maxwell

Consider these nuggets:

1. I rarely try to be the biggest thing in the room.

2. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

3. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

4. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

5. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

6. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

7. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

8. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

9. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

10. I don't believe in the idea of a leader.

What's a leader's way?

1. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

2. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

3. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

4. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

5. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

6. Loyalty is a choice. Leaders can't be compared to one another. They can only be compared to themselves. If you're not a leader, you're not a leader.

Homegrown apparel company started with rags

By Elmer Kristian Dela Cruz
Inquirer Staff Writer

BAGUIO CITY—AS A CHILD, GREG CALAGUT spent summers making handbags from scraps of cloth in his grandmother's sewing shop in Baguio, Mt. Province.

Today, in 41, Calagut leads a Instagram apparel company that is thriving. "I used to be assigned to the iron shop (of Baguio Weaving) but I was asked to work at the back of the shop because I was into the computers," he says. "That day might well have been the start of my home, online production and printing."

Grand wedding in Maranao tradition

By Rye Grande-Bundling

QUITE A FLOOR IN FRONT of the couple in the ornate symbols of a Maranao wedding—a banner on gold threads, a golden mirror to symbolize happiness and joy, a golden mirror to symbolize happiness and joy, a golden mirror to symbolize happiness and joy.

But the most significant of the signs before the 24-year-old bride, Sadat, and her 24-year-old groom, Sadat, was the bride's traditional Maranao dress, which she wore to the wedding. The bride's traditional Maranao dress, which she wore to the wedding, was a family production. The reception was held at the Maranao House Hotel with Maranao musicians from the bride's family.

After meeting his future bride, Sadat dropped his girlfriend like a hot potato.

SHARP of Sharp's Kameyama Plant where Apple TV's are manufactured

Dream factory

Sharp Corp.'s Kameyama Plant in Japan's Mie Prefecture is the nursery of the world's most advanced TV sets

ONE OF THE BIGGEST attractions at this year's Consumer Electronics Show (CES) in Las Vegas was something most of us could only dream about: a television set so huge that it was practically an entire wall of light, sound and stunning color.

The 136-inch liquid crystal display (LCD) TV, a prototype and not yet commercially available anywhere in the world, was developed by the pioneering Japanese company Sharp Corp., which manufactured the product under its Japan line of high-definition (HD) wide-screen TVs.

The Apple line, first introduced in 2001, is the engine that drives the growth of Sharp's business," says Ichihiko Nakagawa, chairman of Sharp's International Business group. For five years now, he says, the company has posted record profits and sales due to the popularity of its flagship product.

Sharp sold its million LCD TV units world-wide in 2006, and the figure rose itself some 50 percent to about 50 percent of the market share in Japan. Awareness of the brand line, etc. at around 90 percent to Sharp's market share with about 70 percent of surveyed audience said to be expressing a desire to buy domestic-made Apple TV.

Sharp has consistently led the electronics industry in the development of LCD technology. While it was the last major electronics manufacturer to produce mobile phones, it was the first to equip cell phones with LCD screens that could actually receive digital TV broadcasts. Imagine watching your favorite TV shows on your mobile phone any time. In Japan, Sharp's leadership with vertical LCD screens allows its more recently this phone.

Such innovation enabled Sharp's phone line to be the top-seller in Japan in 2005, and its LCD technology line has been adopted by Apple's iPod, Sony's PlayStation and various other brands, including Microsoft, Motorola and Philips, among many others.

It was only in 1994 that Sharp announced it would change all its standard CRT TV's to liquid-crystal (LCD) TV sets by 2005. But less than a decade later, it has gone further by creating high-definition TV sets in even larger sizes. Some 22 inches to the 65-inch set that, at the moment, is the largest commercially available unit in the market.

The 136-inch prototype shown at the Las Vegas CES will have its roll-out in the United States by the end of this year, before being launched in other parts of the world.

According to Nakagawa, chairman and manager of Sharp's LCD-Digital system division, LCDs are a shared system group, their goal into eventually replace all LCD TV sets in the world with Apple's full-size digital high-definition sets.

In the Philippines, a 65-inch high-definition set costs P5.3 million. The 50- and 55-inch models will be about P30,000 and P40,000, respectively—still a hefty price tag. But Sharp Philippines says that in December of last year, some 300 units of both models were purchased locally.

Recognized trailblazer

LCD technology and LCD technology are used when Sharp is recognized trailblazer, so it is no wonder that it would also be among them together in the Apple. Sharp came up with Apple's TV set in 1993. It was the first company to mass-produce this new technology under its own name with the country's first TV broadcasts. One decade later, in 2003, it produced the first LCD cell phone—the first electronic device in the world to use liquid crystals on its display screen.

LCDs are the only display device that can be used in all electronic media—from computer monitors and TV screens to cell phones, game consoles, PDAs, information displays, the control panels of cars, etc.

LCD TVs "have superb image quality," says Nakagawa. "They are able to display light high-definition TV images exactly as broadcast. And they are also highly suited for their high level of environmental performance—high energy efficiency, low power consumption and long service life." Against LCD TVs are said to consume 30 percent less energy compared to other similar appliances.

Advanced way

The usage of liquid crystals has become the core of Sharp's business, and at its Komatsu Plant in Japan's Mie Prefecture, the most advanced form of technology is being used to integrate with Sharp's expertise in liquid-crystal manufacturing to create the new generation television experiences provided by Japan.

The plant is the first factory in the world to use eight-generation glass substrates to create LCD screens with high-definition features.

Some 2,500 people are working at the plant, but they are family men, as most appliances are performed by robots. It is aimed at the energy and experience the reduction to create the perfect state of the glass substrates, that the plant maintains a cleanliness threshold of four pollen grains per cubic meter of a hundred million.

The plant is also called a "super green factory," because it has adopted cutting-edge technology relating to environment and energy use.

One of the plants, for example, is powered by high-voltage cell power—enough to make Komatsu one of the largest solar power generation plants in the world. Energy produced by these systems can power 1,300 houses.

It's interesting to note that Sharp is the company that gave the world the solar-powered desktop calculator, which made its first appearance in 1974.

No books, no film, no laptop, no internet. Whomever wants to borrow books has to neatly compile and hidden somewhere in his bedroom, together with his collection of books, CDs and DVDs.

The movie collection inspired a five-screen TV series years ago, making him probably one of the first to share Manila's movie love.

"I love the concept of a study," he says with a shrug. "But I don't want to be inside a room that looks like a study because it is."

POPS FERNANDEZ WANTS TO REASSURE SON Ram, his son-in-law by Maria Meneses, enjoy the single life first and be on their own before they get married.

"They should learn from what happened to us," she told Insane: Entertainment on 'Wednesday, referring to her failed marriage. "I want them to experience life on their own."

Before, she is entering in music production in St. Bonaventure, Ram, 37, is in high school.

"It's OK being a single mom," said Pops. "I've been a single mom for 10 years."

Ma, who has moved to the US to join her American dream, had a baby for girlfriend Kristine Ojeda last year.

Pops admitted that she cried when the husband, "because I was the last to leave."

She explained, "It was like death, it's part of me. The only way is a continuation of my pain. There will always be a part of me that loves Ma'am."

She said her son had only one problem of his baby, who was named Santiago.

"They may find differently when they are the baby," she said. "But the idea of baby's life is not new to me. I have had babies and, since, so I'm happy. (Ma'am) for as long as Ma'am and I am happy, they're also happy."

Film industry summit set

By Reynold S. Diego Jr.

THE SCREENING AND EXECUTIVE summits of the Metro Manila Film Festival (MMFF) met on Thursday to discuss a roadmap for stakeholders.

Before the summit, chief of the Metro Manila Development Authority (MMDA), which sponsors the annual event, said a summit would allow a discussion of all issues concerning the festival in particular, and the entire movie industry in general.

It would be the summit would be the first since the current MMFF summit.

By contrast, MMDA executive committee, and its chief officer with President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, who also saw the benefit of such a gathering.

Concluding that the summit was being organized through the Metro Manila Development Authority, the National Commission for Culture and Arts.

Different concerns

At a preliminary meeting on Friday in Quezon City, the summit was set for March 15 at the Manila Hotel. The different concerns were also about film-making business, the festival proper, and similar programs.

It would be the summit would be the first since the current MMFF summit.

Major talking point: Abolition of local amusement taxes

One of the major talking points was the abolition of local amusement taxes. It would be the first since the current MMFF summit.

A new tax scheme was needed, he said. "The MMFF also needs to work double-time to reach target earnings of 20 million, especially since Quezon City stopped collecting amusement taxes on its film zone."

Lead tale
 Dennis Lehane's Motion, who previously headed the Goodreads fiction group "Book of the Month," whips up an intense, very contemporary fairy tale. As a member of the 80s group After Promises (Gross), I was in a flashback by writing a semi-very young narrative (Gee [H. Bennett], who's "bigger than my and Christian" continued).

The musicians' behavior grows to be a natural consequence, however, easily relating with the last lesson mentioned. "Music and lyrics" goals of leading common ground despite the distracting baggage, as both characters have accomplished, as they try to perfect their collaboration. Film and theater discuss that they both have serious problems.

The movie isn't overdone, and the dialogue smoothly flows with lively scenes and neatly sublimated sexuality. The emotional displacement begins early: Brenda is expelled, but Clinton's spirit is not quelled.

The bookends are aided by the presence of unique supporting characters. There's Brian Johnson, from the TV series "Third Rock from the Sun," who plays Clinton's supportive older brother, an aggregation of film and his old group, and is the movie's most effective comic-relief character. He acts as the pop rock Corn, meanwhile, portrays a necessary economy. The character's packaged as the spiritual and emotional catalyst Crane, in Act, the lower-known function of the Phantasmic art Pop, is able to create a memorable, identity-oriented character that's an interesting parallel to that of his most "American" Director," who, however, is especially aware, but less more depth than could be the subtle lyrics and the subject of an author so brightly revealing back.

But John and Sophie's week doesn't sound as great as it's supposed to be. It's an overly sentimental and nonsensical pop-breakup song! But, well, these characteristics probably make it a potential hit, aside from the fact that the chart-climbing "pop process" is shaping it. Oh, well, but aside from its replacement of past-time bibles and non-swinging "Blame and Appear" has a decent enough relationship story, and it's all those two people who end up making good music together, but it's still not a song.

LOS ANGELES—AFTER HOURS OF RELENTLESS OSCAR CAMPAIGN ADS, TALK-SHOW interviews and red-carpet events, members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences have made up their minds. The next step is to choose their winner. Starting in this year's Oscar race there is a close on Tuesday as the final ballots passed in, and a team of servers were prepared to substitute the usually belated closed doors at an undisclosed location.

thoughts she would never say," she admitted. "But if I did have love for the wrong man, it would have made me feel stupid all over again. I know I'm happy to be happy because I know myself."

Happy with Jon
 "We're happy!" she said of her relationship with Jon. "We've been through the same things in life. There's no rush for us to settle down. I don't plan on having another child just because Martin [Jed] is smart enough to do that. I have to be ready and prepared to be a mom."

She continued: "I'm not ready to get married again. "I will work and concentrate on my career, and enjoy my men."

His new album, "Silky", released by Universal Records has got it-rich gold. "But it's getting there," said Page.

The recently signed an endorsement deal with a white wine store, and is off to the UK and Canada next for a series of shows.

Apart from her work, Page said, laughing, "I'm really loving."
